

REEF Marine Conservation Internship

Are you interested in marine science, environmental education, non-profit operations, and SCUBA diving?

Apply for REEF's Marine Conservation Internship for the opportunity to:

- Gain experience in non-profit operations
- Gain experience in tropical fish identification and field methodology
- Gain public speaking experience
- Network with key people in marine science
- Receive college credit (if applicable)
- Expand your professional skill set
- SCUBA dive the coral reefs of the FL Keys

SUMMER 2017
MAY-AUGUST

Marine Conservation Internship Duties

- Perform fish identification surveys
- Assist with invasive lionfish derby series
- Plan and implement special events
- Assist with Ocean Explorers Camp and develop student activities
- Create content for websites, newsletters, and social media
- Interact with members and partners
- Participate in education and outreach events
- Present seminars for groups and dive clubs

Internship Location REEF Headquarters, Key Largo, Florida

Local housing, utilities and internet provided at a reduced cost

Work Schedule 40 hours per week, Monday-Friday, with some weekend work for special events

Internships offered during Spring, Summer and Fall semesters

Requirements must have completed at least 2 years of college & preferred Open Water SCUBA certification

Scholarships available through Our World Underwater Scholarship Society & the Heppell REEF Marine Conservation Internship Scholarship.

